Game Overview

Countryball Cards is a player versus player tactical card game where you assemble a team of powerful countryballs and attempt to eliminate your opponent's countryballs!

It can be played in a 1v1 (classic) or a 2v2 mode.

Games usually take about 20-40 minutes.

The rules are also available on our official website:

Setup

To begin playing the game, the players must first assemble their teams of 3 countryball cards  each. You can do this by drawing 2 cards each, then discarding one while keeping and revealing the other at the same time. Repeat this 3 times to assemble the teams. Shuffle the deck beforehand.

Next, you have to setup the Resource Market! Take out the 4 colored, resource dice and roll them to determine the market prices. The dice have 6 sides and the faces show the following prices: 2, 3, 3, 4, 4 and 5 coins. The face shown is the market price.

Each die corresponds to one resource:

Yellow Die → Grain Price

Brown Die → Horse Price

Black Die → Oil Price

Gray Die → Iron Price

After each round (once all players have finished their turn), the resource dice are re-rolled and the prices are updated.

Finally, you can roll the combat die  to determine which player starts first, then continue clockwise.

Playing the Game

On the start of their first turn, each player gets 10 coins 🪙 to start. At the start of every turn after that, they get 5 coins 🪙.

During their turn, players can use coins to buy and sell resources. The buy prices are shown on the resource dice (see Setup), while the sell price is always 1 coin 🪙 lower than the buy price of the resource.

The players can then use those resources to activate abilities on their Countryball Cards. Each Countryball Card has 2 to 3 abilities with different effects. Abilities have a name, cost in resources, description of what they do and an optional dice roll requirement.

COSSACK CHARGE

SEND THE COSSACK HORSEMEN TO ATTACK A COUNTRYBALL. CAN BE USED ONCE PER TURN. 🎲 ≥ 10

When a card has a dice roll requirement, you must roll the combat die  after activating it. If you do not roll a number higher or equal to the one shown, the ability doesn't get activated (but the resources get used).

If there is a word "EACH" written next to the requirement, you must roll the dice multiple times (e.g. for each attack you do with the ability).

You can use an ability however many times you want, as long as you have the required resources and the ability description doesn't forbid it.

Sometimes, the ability description can have some text to make them fun to read, but it doesn't really mean anything. Usually, that text is shown in gray.

Attacks

A lot of abilities come in form of an attack ability. When an ability description mentions "attacking a countryball" it means that the player that activated the ability (the attacker) can choose any enemy countryball card and attempt to attack it.

If the dice roll for the attack is successful (or if there is none), the following happens:

1. The enemy countryball card gets one Damage Token  applied.
2. The enemy countryballs is stunned. A stunned card should be rotated sideways to indicate that it's stunned. Abilities from stunned countryballs can't be used. When a player ends their turn, all their stunned cards are unstunned (returned to normal).

When a Countryball Card collects 3 Damage Tokens , it is eliminated and removed from the game.

Project Cards

Some abilities create Project Cards that passively provide unique effects. Project Cards stay in play until destroyed and automatically apply their effects without needing to be activated. They are also tied to their creating countryball, so if a countryball is eliminated, all of its Project Cards are immediately destroyed.

Winning

Winning is pretty simple. To win, you must ~~not~~ ~~lose~~ eliminate all enemy countryballs by dealing 3 Damage Tokens  to each.

Card Types

In order to quickly determine what kind of abilities a Countryball Card has, you can refer to the card type icon in its top left corner.

-  Combat → Focused on attacking
-  Defense → Provides protection and healing
-  Economic → Generates extra resources
-  Uncategorized → Usually adaptable cards

2v2 Gamemode

Players team up in two teams of two. Each player now picks 2 countryball cards total. Teammates sit opposite, so turns alternate between the two teams. Players can attack any enemy countryball. Teammates can coordinate strategies, but cannot share resources or coins. Win as a team by defeating all the countryballs in the enemy team.

Allies

Allying is only available with Extended Edition of Countryball Cards!

When playing with Allies, these countryballs are added to the game: Norway, Croatia, Austria, Czechia, Finland, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, Hungary and Switzerland!

At the start of the game, place 3 countryball cards face-up in the middle of the table (5 in 2v2 gamemode) and assign them their ally icons 🤝. A player can hire an ally for 12 coins 🪙 at some point during their turn. Players can't have more than one allied card.

When hired, allies are added to your team like any other card (they keep their ally icon), but they have one key difference:

Allies cannot be stunned or attacked! They also don't need to be eliminated in order for their owner to lose the game.
